for the future

Final report of the online consultation 2024 European Election participatory engagement campaign for young citizens

About the project

European society stands at a crossroad. We face war on the continent, rising inflation, an increasingly obvious climate crisis and the pandemic. The next European elections will be crucial.

Our destiny lies in our hands. We need a strong voice to make Europe better - together! A sustainable path for this future can only be taken with young people on board.

Therefore, JEF Europe and Make.org, with the support of the European Parliament, launched the unique, non-partisan, massive and participatory initiative “EurHope” in a collaboration with a coalition of more than 45 academics, civil society actors, European regions, cities and transnational institutions. It outlines the future that the European youth jointly envisages and spearhead the mobilisation of young European citizens ahead of the 2024 EU elections.

The first step of this initiative is an online consultation, this document presents its final results and key findings

Democracy & EU institutions

POPULAR IDEAS

- Reinforcing transparency and ethical conduct of public officials
- Strengthening the efficiency of European justice systems
- Increasing citizen participation and their understanding of the EU

DIVISIVE IDEAS

- Moving towards a federal Europe
- Favouring a Europe where national governments hold more power and the EU has less control
- Strengthening the powers and competences of the EU

Popular idea

Reinforcing transparency and ethical conduct of public officials

Citizens agree on :

Bolstering transparency and accountability in EU governance and increasing integrity, as well as responsiveness in EU politics.

Citizens envisage stricter transparency regulations to temper influence by organised interest groups. Participants advocate for more limitation on lobbying activities and for the setup of more efficient institutions to tackle corruption.

The proposals draw ideas on improving political integrity and accountability by ensuring that individuals with legal verdicts do not hold public offices.

Besides, legal immunity of representatives is also discussed, with the goal to reduce the risk of unethical behavior and misconduct in politics.

There is consensus on the idea of linking the income of political actors to the median income of their constituency. Participants highlight their perception that politicians are overpaid and should share the same financial responsibilities as any other citizen.

Main popular proposals

Rohnek, 20
We should tie the wages of politicians to the median wage of their country to encourage them to work in the best interest of their people.

Anina
Politicians who have been convicted or are on trial must no longer be allowed to stand for election.

Tene Mihai, 29
We need to create an institution to oversee, audit, prosecute and punish all corrupt politicians

Luis, 22
One should introduce stronger transparency rules within the EU to ensure that no lobby group has excessive influence.

Other popular proposals to illustrate the idea

Tobias
There should be a ban in Europe on "political immunity" where e.g. politicians who steal money from the state are arrested.

Laurent, 22
It is necessary for the European Union to form an anti-corruption body to monitor where the funds received by the government are going.

Carmen
It is necessary that the salaries of politicians, of those who work in politics, do not exceed 2.5 times the average salary, so that they do not take it for that reason.

Jitka
We should introduce penalties for corruption and to abolish the criminal integrity of politicians so that they can be prosecuted for their actions against the people.

Popular idea

Strengthening the efficiency of European justice systems

Citizens agree on :

Strengthening the legal framework for protecting individuals, especially children, from various forms of violence.

The proposals put forward the need for stricter measures to combat crimes against children, including increasing penalties for child abuse. There is a significant emphasis on the need to raise penalties for offenses related to rape and sexist assaults across the EU.

Additionally, there is a strong commitment to providing comprehensive support for the victims of such crimes, ensuring their well-being and recovery are prioritised. Participants also suggest speeding up procedures and judicial intervention in the field.

Main popular proposals

Aurelia, 24

We should make an EU-wide criminal registry, so a law officer in one country knows immediately to be dealing with criminals from the EU.

81%

Mitta

We should triple penalties for child trafficking, paedophilia and child abuse from a minimum of 20 years in prison. Children are the future

82%

10%

Cécile, 30

Rape and sexist aggression must be penalized much more severely throughout the EU, and victims must be strongly supported.

84%

Other popular proposals to illustrate the idea

Shuka

One should punish pedophilia much more and invest in prevention.

84%

Marina, 25

It is necessary for the law to act now to stop stalking and violence, instead of waiting for something to happen to whistleblowers

84%

Popular idea

Increasing citizen participation and their understanding of the EU

Citizens agree on :

Actively involving citizens in political decision making processes and better informing them about EU institutions.

The proposals aim to reconnect citizens with European politics by creating permanent participation mechanisms. Participants advocate for enhancing a direct dialogue between citizens and institutions through consultations on specific subjects or digital participation tools : online platforms or apps to engage citizens in the political decision-making process. Finally, there is consensus on the idea of system where all leaders of EU institutions are selected through direct elections.

There is also agreement on the need for improved transparency and communication about the EU: European citizens should have a clearer understanding of how the EU operates. Participants want to make the EU's work more transparent and understandable. The EU is asked to communicate more effectively about its projects, in order to inform, build trust, and ensure accountability within the Union.

Main popular proposals

Alex, 34
It is necessary to create mechanisms for the continuous participation of citizens; participation should not be limited to elections every 4 years.

Daniela
We should improve direct dialogue between EU citizens and the members of the EU parliament and the EU commission.

Luis, 31
European citizens need to be better informed about what each of the decisions taken by the European institutions entails.

Julian, 19
One should create more transparency and clearer impact mechanisms that make the work of the EU more understandable.

Other popular proposals to illustrate the idea

Anna, 29
People living in Europe should have sufficient knowledge of how the EU works and how it affects people's daily lives

Vanessa
The leaders of European institutions must be directly elected by European citizens.

Şerban, 22
EU projects need to be clearer and easily accessible in one place for everyone.

Jules, 22
Digital tools need to be implemented to involve citizens in policy decisions and gather advice

Divisive idea

Moving towards a federal Europe

Citizens are divided on :

Establishing the "United States of Europe" to compete with the world's major powers and enhance international influence.

The participants are actively discussing these issues. They have differing viewpoints on whether or not a European federation is desirable. Issues on centralisation, as well as subsidiarity were raised.

Main divisive proposals

Other divisive proposals to illustrate the idea

Divisive idea

Favouring a Europe where national governments hold more power and the EU has less control

Citizens are divided on :

Devolving greater powers to the member states.

The participants are divided on the idea of shifting more power to member states and reducing the power of the European Commission.

The results show a division of opinion on whether or not a return to a Europe of more sovereign nations is desirable. It would imply that each member state retains full autonomy to determine its own policies, encompassing both ideological and economic dimensions. Such independence would count for both, an ideological, as well as an economical dimension.

Main divisive proposals

Leoš Pavlica, 16

The EU should be transformed into a purely economic organisation, which will not have any influence on the internal policies of the Member States.

Noel, 34

We should give more power to the countries and less power to the EU Commission.

Other divisive proposals to illustrate the idea

Konrad

There should be a return to a Europe of Homelands, where each country pursues its own independent policy ideologically, as well as economically.

Pablo, 26

It should be remembered that each EU country should be separated economically and politically from the EU. The EU has no right to interfere in the affairs of countries.

Klaus

We should return to the EEC. Common security and economic policy is okay, the rest belongs to the nation states.

Mit

The EU must be excluded from intervening in the economic decisions of EU countries, whatever their choices. The EU is not a dictatorship.

Divisive idea

Strengthening the powers and competences of the EU

Citizens are divided on :

The extent of the EU's authority over the domestic policies of its member states.

Participants are divided over proposals to enhance the EU's capabilities and efficiency, which could involve abolishing the member states' veto rights.

Proposals on concrete cases in which the EU should intervene are also divisive. An example is the state of the Rule of Law in Poland or Hungary.

Main divisive proposals

Salvatore, 21

The unanimity principle should be abolished, so that individual countries can no longer prevent important projects for the entire EU.

Katalin

The European Parliament must be further strengthened. Its decision-making powers must be increased.

Other divisive proposals to illustrate the idea

Igor, 17

The powers of the European Parliament should be increased to counteract the situations we are currently seeing in Poland and Hungary.

Jef Europe

We should have a European Parliament that enjoys full law-making and budgetary powers in all areas.

Josu, 31

It is necessary to put an end to the Unanimity Rule, a rule used by countries such as Hungary to hinder the European process with their vetoes.

Hristo Kisev, 16

We should not allow some nations to block proposals agreed on by the majority of Europe and its people.

Climate change and environment

POPULAR IDEAS

- Developing more efficient and accessible rail transport
- Strengthening sustainable European industries and recycling
- Promoting innovation in European agriculture and sustainable farming
- Increasing the protection of biodiversity within the EU and beyond
- Accelerating the energy transition and the reduction of carbon emissions

DIVISIVE IDEAS

- Empowering the EU to lead the ecological transition
- Limiting air transportation

Popular idea

Developing more efficient and accessible rail transport

Citizens agree on :

Creating more sustainable and cost-effective train travel, with a focus on the role of mobility in meeting European environmental and energy objectives.

Participants put forth the development of comprehensive European railway lines as a way to improve cross-border connectivity within the EU. They highlight the critical importance of establishing robust rail links between all EU member states, particularly as a means to facilitate the energy transition and achieve carbon neutrality goals.

The proposals recommend increasing subsidies for railway services across Europe to make train travel a more cost-effective alternative to flying. They emphasize the necessity of creating and financially supporting affordable train journeys, including year-round night trains.

They also stress the idea of using railways as a more sustainable and efficient means of good transportation. According to participants, it would lessen the dependency on road freight.

Main popular proposals

Sarah

We should develop & fund affordable night trains & railways throughout to combine our need of mobility and lower carbon emissions

 82% 18%

Hubert, 23

European railroad lines should be created so that people can travel by train throughout the European Union.

 83%

Zakarias, 17

We need to subsidize train services across Europe to make it cheaper to travel by rail than by air.

 78% 13%

Alexandre Pirralho, 25

Rail connections between all EU states are needed to achieve energy transition and carbon neutrality.

 79% 10% 10%

Other popular proposals to illustrate the idea

Laurent

We need to harmonize and coordinate Europe's rail network, so that people can travel easily by train across the continent.

 91%

Jules, 21

We need to develop rail freight within and between European countries as an alternative to road freight.

 87%

Popular idea

Strengthening sustainable European industries and recycling

Citizens agree on :

Encouraging more responsible corporate practices to reduce environmental harm as well as funding efforts to protect and restore the environment.

Participants suggest introducing penalties or additional taxes for companies with high pollution records or waste production. These actions could discourage companies from greenwashing.

At the same time, these actions would strengthen waste management and circular economy. Citizens call to improve recycling practices in first place: reducing plastic pollution, and promoting environmentally responsible actions. Proposals call for simplifying recycling processes, such as the implementation of systems for refundable bottles and cans, and making recycling easier with clear disposal labels.

There is agreement on the need to standardise waste management, as well as packaging rules and improving citizens' awareness of environmental rules.

Main popular proposals

Ari
It is necessary to penalize those companies with a high level of pollution or waste production.

Jakub
A system of returnable bottles and cans should be introduced.

Rita, 22
It is necessary for companies to be taxed in proportion to the environmental damage produced by allocating the money obtained to clean up damage.

Laura, 21
Waste sorting rules need to be standardized across Europe to simplify recycling.

Other popular proposals to illustrate the idea

Rita, 22
It is necessary to tax companies in proportion to the ecological and environmental damage that may have been produced.

Sascha, 32
We should create larger fines for businesses that pollute and destroy the environment across all countries.

J
There should be stricter policies against waste disposal at companies, including those that process their waste outside the EU.

Jonas, 29
We should have a unified system for every packaging in Europe, so that everything could be recyclable.

Popular idea

Promoting innovation in European agriculture and sustainable farming

Citizens agree on :

Promoting sustainable and environmentally-conscious agricultural practices while ensuring the livelihoods of farmers.

Proposals aim to reform the Common Agricultural Policy, prioritising farmers' self-sufficiency over subsidies.

They highlight the need to support small-scale agricultural enterprises to foster eco-friendly products and advocate for chemical-free farming methods. Additionally, they call for the implementation of stricter controls on the import of agricultural products that fail to comply with European phytosanitary regulations.

Main popular proposals

Arthur, 18 ans
We need to rethink the Common Agricultural Policy so that farmers can make a living from what they produce, not from subsidies.

Marcin
Small and medium-sized farms should be supported, making agricultural products more environmentally friendly.

Matthew
There is a need to produce bio pesticides and bio fertilisers and to make more use of natural elements, living organisms, in crop production and animal husbandry.

Other popular proposals to illustrate the idea

Emilia, 20 ans
The budget for research and implementation of environmental and agricultural innovations should be increased.

Anne Marie
Soils need to be regenerated using innovative methods such as cover cropping, without the use of chemicals.

Luis
It is necessary to prohibit the entry of agricultural products that do not meet the phytosanitary requirements for European products.

Popular idea

Increasing the protection of biodiversity within the EU and beyond

Citizens agree on :

Boosting European policy to protect biodiversity.

Proposals suggest actions in favor of ecological richness. Key suggestions include halting practices that lead to deforestation, increasing the size of national parks with a commitment to their preservation, managing and cleansing river systems to avert both flooding and droughts, enhancing green spaces in urban areas, protecting the genetic diversity of plants in forested regions, and ensuring the protection of marine ecosystems.

Main popular proposals

Other popular proposals to illustrate the idea

Popular idea

Accelerating the energy transition and the reduction of carbon emissions

Citizens agree on :

Diversifying energy sources to enhance reliability and decrease reliance on non-EU countries.

The proposals recognise the importance of renewable energy but consider that it cannot be the EU's only source of energy. They advocate for the development of other energies, such as nuclear power, in order to lower greenhouse gas emissions. The central aim is to secure a reliable and efficient energy supply, decreasing reliance on imports and bolstering energy security.

Main popular proposals

Other popular proposals to illustrate the idea

Divisive idea

Empowering the EU to lead the ecological transition

Citizens are divided on :

Implementing stronger ecological policies in the EU.

Some participants tend to oppose the EU's initiatives to step up its action on climate change. While specific proposals concerning railways, energy, or pesticides find common ground, broader declarations are met with contention.

Whenever a proposal is relatively vague and references ecological measures without detailing the specific sector involved, it becomes a subject of debate. In these instances, the controversy arises regardless of whether the proposal is for or against such measures.

At the same time, some very specific issues, such as the introduction of a carbon tax to combat climate change, do not elicit consensus. It is notable that once a proposal directly links measures with individual impact, this solution sparks controversy.

Main divisive proposals

Paul, 24
The development of the EU's climate policy, which restricts the freedom of Europeans, when, for example, the U.S. does not have similar regulations, should be limited.

Meriam
Europe needs to take much tougher ecological measures before it's really too late.

Victor, 18
A carbon tax must be introduced at EU borders

Other divisive proposals to illustrate the idea

Martin, 29
We should slow down the tempo of introducing new green laws.

Mouvement Impact France
The granting of public aid to companies must be conditional on ecological and social criteria.

Rémi, 28
A tax on financial transactions is needed to finance the ecological transition

Divisive idea

Limiting air transportation

Citizens are divided on :

Banning private jets and further taxing air travel within Europe.

Participants hold differing opinions on proposals related to air travel. Those include the idea of prohibiting short-haul flights, limiting air travel to destinations accessible by train within a few hours or taxing air traffic in favor of the development of railways.

The advancement of rail infrastructure emerges as a widely agreed-upon point in this consultation. However, consensus falters when this development is explicitly linked with restrictions on air travel.

Main divisive proposals

Other divisive proposals to illustrate the idea

Economy, social justice and employment

POPULAR IDEAS

- Promoting easier access to employment, especially for the youth
- Encouraging “Made in Europe”

DIVISIVE IDEAS

- Introducing a tax system that better corrects inequalities
- Building a more social Europe

Popular idea

Promoting easier access to employment, especially for the youth

Citizens agree on :

Increasing accessibility of job opportunities for young people and providing simplified education and career paths.

Participants highlight the need to standardise training programmes in Europe.

This would ensure that individuals receive more harmonised and relevant education, preparing them with the necessary skills for future job prospects.

Special attention is given to the accessibility of trainings, as well as skills related to new technologies.

They also propose the development of a single online platform for young people across the EU that would provide information about internships, scholarships, and job openings. Such a platform would make it easier for young people to find and access these opportunities.

Main popular proposals

Davide, 35

It is necessary to develop alternative and harmonized training paths at the European level to prepare the population for the jobs of the future

Silvia, 33

It is necessary to create a service or web page that collects internships, scholarships and job offers for young people throughout the EU.

Other popular proposals to illustrate the idea

Louis, 34

We need a Europe that is more attuned to changes in the job market and new technologies, by promoting training.

A/o

We should increase work freedoms for EU/EEA citizens. e.g. a European citizen card to be able to work in the EU without bureaucracy.

Goga, 28

It is necessary to invest in training geared toward professional practice, emphasizing technologies.

Anima, 30

We should have a minimum standard for some jobs in all of Europe.

Popular idea

Encouraging “Made in Europe”

Citizens agree on :

Strengthening Europe's industrial autonomy and resilience, promoting homegrown capabilities and innovation, as well as reducing dependencies on foreign markets.

Participants recommend encouraging "Made in Europe" initiatives and prioritising European expertise, by safeguarding Europe's primary industries. They also argue for the enhancement of living standards for agricultural workers.

Popular proposals also suggest to boost the consumption of domestic and European products. According to participants, this could be done by encouraging people to choose and support products from Europe and their own country, rather than relying on imports from other markets, such as US and China.

Main popular proposals

Other popular proposals to illustrate the idea

Divisive idea

Introducing a tax system that better corrects inequalities

Citizens are divided on :

Introducing new taxes at the European level, particularly targeting wealthy individuals, substantial inheritances or large corporations.

The participants brought forth a large array of solutions regarding taxation.

Each proposal on that topic sparked division. They include : taxes on large fortunes; on inheritance; progressive income tax; taxation of the richest 1%...

The different uses to which this money was put did not alter the voting dynamic. Whether it is to finance European initiatives, the ecological transition or the reduction of inequalities, the proposals are controversial.

Main divisive proposals

Other divisive proposals to illustrate the idea

Divisive idea

Building a more social Europe

Citizens are divided on :

The idea of enhancing social policies within the EU and prioritising the well-being of its citizens over economic market goals.

Participants engage in discussions about social benefits in Europe, such as the introduction of a Europe-wide minimum wage and a universal basic income. Proposals also debated the idea to provide affordable housing, as well as the streamlining of pension levels across Europe.

Main divisive proposals

Other divisive proposals to illustrate the idea

EU in the world

POPULAR IDEAS

- Strengthening a sovereign EU voice in diplomacy

DIVISIVE IDEAS

- Establishing a European army
- Increasing the EU's support to Ukraine

Popular idea

Strengthening a sovereign EU voice in diplomacy

Citizens agree on :

The importance of the EU making its own important decisions without being influenced by major global powers like the United States, China, and Russia.

The goal for the participants is to bolster the EU's stability and autonomy, positioning it as a distinct force free from the sway of other nations. This strategy seeks to enhance the EU's self-sufficiency in navigating global affairs and safeguarding its own interests. According to participants, the EU should become an independent global actor.

Main popular proposals

Other popular proposals to illustrate the idea

Divisive idea

Establishing a European army

Citizens are divided on :

The proposal for a unified European army in response to geopolitical challenges, aiming to make the EU independent from external forces.

Opinions are strongly divided on whether or not a European army should be created in place of national armies. Proposals on this idea highlight that it would reduce the dependence on the US for strategic military assets.

Main divisive proposals

Lukáš Valenta, 17

We should create a united European army to help us counter foreign influences from Russia, the US and the PRC.

Maya, 20

We should set up a common European army in the face of uncertain global politics.

Other divisive proposals to illustrate the idea

Mr.

We should start a slow but sure process to unite the EU in certain necessary areas, like having one army.

Măx, 27

One should introduce a European army and establish a common European foreign policy.

Nicola

It is necessary to create a European army instead of individual armies; we would reduce the purchase of military arsenal from the U.S. by self-producing

Davide, 35

It is necessary to form a common European army to defend ourselves against the enemies of democracy and freedom

Divisive idea

Increasing the EU's support to Ukraine

Citizens are divided on :
